It was a trip I'll never forget.

I was 6 years old at that moment. Thinking about it now, I had never been close to my parents, ~~(until the day)~~ until the day 39 when they took vacation in order to go camping.

At first, I was confused. Both my parents and I would rather prefer to stay home than to go somewhere. But my father told me that a small trip is a nice change. So we grabbed everything 45 that seemed nessesary for camping and set off.

My mother was never a fan of crowded places and, even though, it was <sup>quite</sup> challenging to find a good spot in the forest, we decided it would still be a better choice. While driving to the desired destination, my father was telling all kinds of his childhood stories. He even told me how he met my mom 63 and how different they were.

"She's always been so quiet and calm. Books were her only "friends. Typical loner type" - my dad said ~~(with)~~ giggling.

"Well you were no better" - my mom replied with a smile, "You used to be a fan of those silly super heroes movies!"

46 "Hey! I still am!"

And we all laughed. At first, I thought the idea of going together somewhere far away was bewildering or even bizzare. Maybe I was too ignorant. But in the end of the day, when we were sitting near the campfire, covered in blankets, hugging each other, for some reason I started crying. I had never been 51 ~~(felt)~~ so happy in my life.
